Official Statement Regarding the Passing of Dr. David Hanbury

We, the members of the SEPA Executive Committee, are deeply saddened to share with you that a member of our SEPA Community, Dr. David Hanbury, Associate Professor of Psychology at Averett University (Danville, VA), has passed away. Dr. Hanbury attended SEPA's 70th Annual Meeting in Orlando, FL and was reported to be missing by his family on Saturday, March 16th, the last day of our meeting. Following an official investigation by local authorities, Dr. Hanbury's passing was confirmed on Sunday, March 17th by members of his family.

At this time, the SEPA Executive Committee wishes to send its deepest condolences and thoughts of support and comfort to Dr. Hanbury's family, friends, colleagues, and students, as well as to members of the Averett University and Danville, VA communities, and all others who were positively impacted by Dr. Hanbury. Like many others, we mourn his passing.
